

MEDICAL OFFICE BUILDING

Dalton, Georgia

The new Medical Plaza Medical Office building features contemporary design elements and materials.

This new medical office building in Dalton is designed to complement other existing medical buildings on the site, and complete a planned medical office development.

Architects with The Hunter Group had worked with the Owner on the design of previous buildings at this site, most recently to expand the existing imaging center. Development of this new medical building completes the planning for the complex.

This new 30,000 square foot building provides medical offices for Priority Care Family Practice, Northwest Georgia Hematology and Oncology, the Coosa Medical Group Internal Medicine, and LabCorp, as well as specialty practice suites for rotating physicians.

The Hunter Group Architects provided complete architectural and engineering services for the project, including the design and planning of all practice spaces.
